Everyone may agree that museums and galleries are an essential part of each society. People usually go there to increase their cultural knowledge. The question is what is more appealing for people in our modern society. Let's discuss this.

According to the statistics, the most popular museum in England is the British Museum. It is not a secret that such kind of museums attract more people's attention because it is usually the first place where people go to rate for themselves whether they are interested in England history or not. That is why, the Natural History Museum, in contrast, do not have such a big figures in attendance, but it is easily may be corrected. By paying people's attention on the nature around us, going to ^{the} museums related to it may become more respectively. It is also better to draw our attention on low figures of attending the Science Museums, actually they are the more across other museums. This may show us that science is not so popular than it used to be. The best solution for this problem is to encourage the young generation to be involved in exploring new horizons of scientific side of a social life.

To sum up, people are still interested in attending museums and galleries. However, there are some ~~more~~ museums which appeal more people's attention. To solve this problem directors of museums which have a specific theme, need to advertise the theme, which will help to be their museums more hyper.
