Contrary the popular belief, museums and galleries are very popular. To prove it, we collect the data of the attendance of five state museums and galleries in England.

If we refer to the data, we can draw on the positive tendency: the number of visitors increases every time (in total). Nevertheless, scientific museums, after the admission charges, got more substantial, but lost many visitors. The more respectively museums, which rate in 2013 was below, now has a colossal amount of visits, which coincided with catastrophic downturn of the scientific ones. Appealing to the data, since 2015 after the shock and till now, all museums and galleries had more visits.

The British Museum has become the most popular in 2017, concures with National Gallery — they are highly recommended for all tourists in London, but otherwise, Tate Gallery has the same contents as the second one while both of them are substantial on paintings.

Our recommendations for British Museum and National Gallery, as for the most popular within the tourists, would be guides on the foreign languages and interactive tours to attract the young generation. The Natural History and Science Museums can cooperate to become the truly popular for all interested in.

In the conclusion, we hopefully invite you in the unique trip to the bright pages of the past.
